

Chinese Lantern Festival – Mia Melki

I read somewhere about a city that lights up,
once a year.

I read about its men,
gathering lanterns,
collecting wishes,
and releasing them into the skies.

I read about
magic,
in glittering eyes.
Hope,
in a sanctuary of light.

I read about forgotten wars and unsung heroes.